

CS101: Lab #13

Writing Classes IV

Along with this lab statement is a 'solution' to the Roman numeral calculator. Create a project and import this code file into that project. Identify and fix all logic errors to make the code function properly.

You may use a debugger and / or add print statements. You are not allowed to modify the structure of the code, although you may add a single line. Otherwise, you may modify expressions in the code.